We went into the main building of the Elba Methodist Church recently t make a picture of some of the restoration work. We noticed there was a lot of sand on the floor at the entrance but didn't comment. We felt awkward walking on it and the preacher apparently noticed and explained with a smile . . . "We have a lot of members who enjoy frequent weekend trips to the beach, thus missing church. We are going to leave the sand here in our effort to have something for everyone." We doubt it will work, but re-

A lot of folks ate bar-b-que out at Representative Holley's Saturday afternoon. There was a good sprinking of people from surounding counties and one AEA type brought family members from Huntsville. The Democratic politicians were working the crowd actively. We doubt any votes were changed during the afternoon, but while the food was being served there was no disagreement with the speeches being made!

The reported cost of the military action in the Middle East boggles our mind. We don't know how to count that much money. However we suspect they are using an inflated pencil to do their math. The cost of maintaining the military is there without the Middle East. Therefore we don't need to claim the salaries and normal expenses of living and training as cost of the Middle East. It just helps when asking Congress for money eve-

Flood recovery is moving slowly but it is moving forward. Every week a business or homeowner or two get back into a remodeled building, the local banks are getting closer and closer to returning to their main facilities and there is repair work going on in buildings around the square and at city hall. There is even promise of The Elba Clipper getting back "home". We thought we were moving as fast as most others, but lately it seems we ain't moving at all. It is going to get better.

Stan Wicker made the national news this past weekend. We first saw him right after lunch Sunday on CNN. Understand the other networks used the same tape throughout the day. They were still playing it Monday morning on CNN. We don't remember exactly what Stan said, but he did comment about being bored. We are sorry he has nothing to be except wait, but not as much as we regret our military units are required in the Middle East. Putting it all together, we would rather Wicker be bored than to be flying his helicopter around getting shot at and sometimes maybe hit.

We read in the Atlanta Constitution of a dentist who was concerned about being called to active duty with his reserve outfit. We understand his concern and can see where he could have some real problems in rebuilding his dental practice. However we can't help but wonder exactly what he thought his service in the reserves meant . . . other than a little weekend jaunt away from the family, a monthly check and a nest egg to bolster his retirement. Before most of those involved in today's battles were even born we were personally involved on all sides . . .active duty Regular Army, recalled reservist, etc. At the end of our "recalled active duty" reserve time, we made a point of getting discharged, not released back to reserve capacity. We didn't like the interruptions to our work schedule. Thank goodness there are people willing to make these sacrifices. We would still defend our country, in spite of our age, but felt the possibility of being called to active duty for emergencies just didn't fit into our career plans. This dentist needs to review his status with the same measurements.

I think this world has finally gone mad! Take a look at everything that is going on around us. We're about to go to war over oil. Come on, is this really a good reason to kill each? Iraq has equested that we feed their hostages. That to me seems a little outrageous, since they are the ones that are holding them captive. If they can't feed them a.m.); Wreck on bridge on Hwy. 8W then there is a simple solution, LET THEM GO! Anyways what does Saddam Hussein hope to gain by holding this group of women and children. I hope he does not think this makes him look powerful. Because in these eyes, he is a little person with an attitude problem, that is about to cause a lot of problems. To top this off, there is a maniac killing slightly built, brunettes in Gainsville, Fl. Being a Florida native and a University of Florida fan this has me a little worried. For one thing, stuff like this is not supposed to happen in real life. Killers like the one stalking Gainsville only exist in movies. Right? I wish I could say that was true, but unfortunately people like that do exist. Do you know what the scary part about it is? You never know who might be the next victim or killer. This may just be me and my upbringing. But I was taught that no one, and I mean absolutely no one has the right to take from someone else. Here I have given three examples of taking. These are not simple things, like a stolen hair barrette or a borrowed item of clothing

These are lives. Maybe in that room of people that Saddam is holding captive, there is a child that could be the world leader to bring our nation together. Maybe on the campus of the University of Florida walks the person that holds the cure to the A.I.D.S epidemic. Then again maybe not. Without the opportunity we will never know. Thats' why I think the world has gone mad!

Isn't funny how two kids in the same family can be so different? We Melanie will get into anything she can reach and would just a soon pour a can of soft drink on the floor as drink it. One night last week I was in the bathroom and didn't really pay any attention to Melanie when she came in, until I noticed that she had a bottle of shampoo and was busily emptying it out on the floor. She got a quick pop, which didn't even produce a whimper, and out the door she went to find something else to get in trouble about. Oh well, it makes life interesting!

ELBA TIGERS SET TO DEFEND CLASS 3A CHAMPIONSHIP

It took the Elba Tigers a long time to bring home that first state championship trophy and now they will find out that being the defending state champion also brings out the best in their opponents when they open the 1990 football season in Daleville

This year's team has a lot of talent and in some ways is stronger than last years, while it is not as strong in others. While both team's wear the Black & Gold of Elba High, they appear to be very different in many ways, especially in personality. Last year's team was a big play team on offense that could, and did score from anywhere on the field, while over on defense the Tigers played an intimidating style of play and was always looking for someone to hit. This year's team seems more laid back and is quietly confident. On offense it will ride the crest of its line surge and rely on strength, the cocky, often penalized squad that wasn't afraid of anyone or anything. It will be interesting Friday night to see how this year's team handles the pressure of being the defending state champs and just what kind of person-NEW BROCKTON VS. BEULAH

The completion of the new Army Aviation Museum is a fine example of the collective spirit and high regard the citizens of Alabama have for our men and women in uniform. Since Fort Rucker's inception in 1943, the Wiregrass economy has reaped great benefits from this quality installation. This reciprocation by the residents exemplifies their unending gratitude. Fort Rucker is an installation of many distinctions: the home of U.S. Army Aviation, one of the most locallysupported military posts in the country; and, now, the site for the largest modern museum dedicated to U.S. Army Avia-

It is estimated that 250,000 people will pass through the museum during its opening year-that's two-and-a-half times its present rate. Already, one of Alabama's top 10 tourist attractions, a sparkling new Army Aviation Museum facility, with its $100 million inventory and free admission, should attract more than its share of tourists and visitors.

Bill Dickinson's turn as target for Democrats

By Brad Clemenson The Mobile Press Register

WASHINGTON—Last year was Sonny Callahan's turn. This year is Bill Dickinson's turn as the Democrats' target in Alabama.

Dickinson, the veteran Republican congressman from Montgomery, faces what could be his toughest challenge since Billy Joe Camp scared him by pulling 49.6 percent of the vote in 1982.

Faye Baggiano, former head of the Alabama Medicaid agency under two governors, has been active in Democratic campaigns for several years.

"He's been in Washington too long," Baggiano said of Dickinson, who was first elected when Barry Goldwater swept the Deep South as the 1964 Republican presidential

I have introduced legislation to provide cost-of-living adjustments (COLAs) for military and civilian federal retirees. My bill, "The COLA Equity Act," goes beyond current proposals in Congress by providing equitable costof-living adjustments across the board.

Many have written requesting my cosponsorship of COLA legislation (HR 3914) which is limited in scope of coverage. Not only does "The COLA Equity Act" go beyond HR 3914 in its scope of coverage, but it also provides a COLA for both 1990 and 1991, (HR 3914 only covers 1990).

Unfortunately, there has been some misrepresentation of my position on this issue, and I hope to clear it up once and for all. In addition to introducing "The COLA Equity Act," I voted in April for a Budget Resolution that provided a COLA to all retirees while achieving the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings deficit target at the same time.

You can be assured of my continued support of America's military and civilian federal retirees and their

Alabama lawmakers earn top U.S. Chamber ratings

WASHINGTON—During 1989, Alabama U.S. Rep. William L. Dickinson was a strong supporter of policies that would enhance free enterprise and foster continued economic expansion, according to a U.S. Chamber of Commerce voting analysis.

He received a favorable Chamber rating based on votes in the House of Representatives on business issues during the first session of the 101st Congress.

Dickinson received a perfect 100 percent rating. "The votes selected reflect the Chamber's legislative mission to create and protect a climate for business that promotes economic growth, create new and better jobs, and foster greater reliance on the private enterprise system," said Al Bourland, the Chamber's vice president for congressional relations. "We feel sure we can count on these members of Congress for their support during the tough battles business will face during the second session of the 101st Congress."

Key business issues addressed last year in Congress included a major minimum wage increase, repeal of Section 89 and further deregulation of natural gas. Congress also debated various proposals that would have imposed new restrictions on the private pension system, established a line-item veto, reformed the Davis-Bacon Act and reduced the capital gains tax rate.

Members of Congress who received a score of 70 percent or higher were presented with the Chamber's "Spirit of Enterprise" award this spring. The award signifies the Chamber's appreciation of those legislators and also identifies the senator or representative as a supporter of free enterprise.
